Logic, [Whately.]

SECOND SESSION.

Greek Testament and Septuagint;
Astronomy and Calculus, [Olmstead and Davies;]
Juvenal, [Leverett;]
Moral Philosophy and Political Economy, [Wayland.]

Students are reccommended to furnish themselves with Anthon's Classical Dictionary, Pickering's Greek Lexicon [3d ed.] and Leverett's Latin Lexicon, for which they will have need thoughout the course.

It is deemed preferable that, in Greek and Latin, students should, so far as practicable, read entire works, rather than garbled and meagre excerpts from a large number of works.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

Beside instruction, according to the preceding course, in the evidences of Christianity and Moral Philosophy, the students are required to attend on the reading of the Scriptures and prayer, daily, in the chapel, and on public worship on the Sabbath. The Professors also give instruction on the Sabbath to the several classes, in a portion of the Holy Scriptures, and also in the shorter catechism, to all who are members of Calvinistic churches, or sons of Calvinistic parents; and in their daily intercourse, inculcate the principles and duties of christianity.

GOVERNMENT.

It is the aim of the Faculty to govern the institution, not by minute regulations, enforced by a system of espionage and coercion, which provoke transgression and injure character; but by bringing the influence of moral principles to bear upon the students, and thus throwing them, as far as practicable, upon their own responsibilities, and inducing them to govern themselves. Free and confidential intercourse between the students and their instructors is encouraged, and the government is parental in its character. Those students with whom these means are ineffectual, are silently returned to their parents or guardians.

SESSIONS FOR STUDY.

There are two sessions in each year. The first begins the last Monday of September, and continues (with a short recess at Christmas,) until the last Thursday of March; the second begins the last Monday of April, and continues until the third Thursday of August, which is the annual commencement.

ADMISSION.

Candidates for admission to college are required to furnish evidence of good moral character, of their proficiency in the part of the course of studies preparatory to the standing for which they are offered, and if from another college, a certificate of regular dismission.

It is earnestly urged upon students, their parents and teachers, that there be exactness and thoroughness in the elementary studies required to prepare pupils for college. Especially is it urged that there be an accurate acquaintance with the Grammars of the Latin and Greek Languages. This accuracy of elementary knowledge is indispensable to the subsequent progress of the student. It is the purpose that examinations for admission to this institution shall be strict, and students must expect to take the grade for which they are found to be qualified. The present condition of the Preparatory Department is such, that confidence is felt in recommending it to parents as a school where the instruction is such as to qualify its pupils for entering the higher classes with the prospect of advantage in their subsequent course.

Those who do not purpose to pursue a full college course are allowed to attend to such studies as they desire, either in the preparatory department, or in any of the higher classes.

Payment of college bills is required in advance; and no deduction is made on account of absence, except in case of sickness.

STATISTICS OF HANOVER COLLEGE.

Since its charter ONE HUNDRED AND SIX students have graduated from Hanover College: of these forty-nine are now preachers of the gospel of whom, all but eight are in the Old School Presbyterian church, and of these eight, five are in other Presbyterian bodies. Eight others are now theological students.

Of the much greater number, amounting to many hundreds, who have spent a considerable time in the college, and received their literary education in it, but did not graduate, the number now in the ministry is believed to be some thirty or forty, chiefly in the Old School Presbyterian church. Among these are several of the most esteemed ministers in the Synod of Indiana. The whole number of ministers of the gospel sent out from the college during the few years of its existence, then, is not much less than one hundred—almost all of them laboring in the great West, from Pennsylvania to Missouri, and from Iowa to Louisiana. A very respectable fraction of the Synods of Cincinnati, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, are from this number. It is believed that a very large proportion of these would never have entered the ministry but for this college.

Hundreds of other students not in the ministry, including fifty-seven Alumni, are scattered throughout the West and South, most of whom are known to be occupying honorable and useful positions in society.

In view of these facts, may not the cordial support of Western Presbyterians be confidently asked for an institution which, in so brief a time, has accomplished so much in supplying the West with a Presbyterian ministry? All this has been accomplished, too, with very limited means, and amidst a continual struggle with pecuniary embarrassment, occasioned first by the adoption of the Manual Labor System, and subsequently by a Tornado, and by the overwhelming pecuniary disasters that fell upon the country.

ADDITIONAL REMARKS.

The location of this institution, within one mile of the Ohio river, between the two flourishing cities of Cincinnati and Louisville, and six miles from the city of Madison, makes it easy of access from the vast region for which that stream is the great thoroughfare.

☞Its situation in a small and retired village, of great salubrity, gives to it ADVANTAGES in respect to cheapness of living, health, and exemption from the temptation of more populous towns.

☞By a public vote, THE RETAIL OF ARDENT SPIRITS IS EXCLUDED FROM THE TOWNSHIP, and cannot be purchased nearer than six miles.

The moral and religious character of the surrounding community, and the watchful care of the Faculty afford securities for the safety and welfare of the students. Churches of the Old School Presbyterian, Seceder, Associate Reformed and Methodist denominations are in the village, or near it.

During the past year and a half scarcely a single case requiring discipline has occurred among the students.

Reports of the conduct and progress of each student are forwarded to parents or guardians, the last of March, August and December.

In conclusion, we suggest to those who have sons to educate, the propriety of making a temporary residence in the healthful village of Hanover or its immediate vicinity, during the time of their sons' attendance in college. To say nothing of the advantage of having them under their own eye, during that important period in which character is generally formed for life, such is the cheapness of house-rent and provisions here, that, in many instances it would be found a matter of economy.

And to such gentlemen as wish to retire permanently from business, to some location where they can enjoy good society, and at the same time, superintend the education of their children, we would say that very desirable residences may be secured in the neighborhood of our college, on the margin of the "Beautiful Ohio."

TO THE ALUMNI OF HANOVER COLLEGE.

An attempt has been made in this catalogue to present, in the history of each graduate, a brief record of facts, which might be of interest to the Alumni. The material contained herein has been obtained after much delay, and mainly by direct correspondence. Owing to the brief time given for its preparation, and the difficulty of obtaining a full record, especially of deceased Alumni, the information secured in many cases is incomplete. It is hoped, however, that, notwithstanding the omissions and errors unavoidable in a first issue, this catalogue will prove acceptable to the Alumni, and of practical value in promoting the interests of the college, and strengthening the bond of union among her graduates.

Each graduate is now earnestly requested to identify himself actively with the Alumni Association, and aid in making the general catalogue complete. Any omissions or inaccuracies, however slight, we will be glad to have reported by any one, whether graduate, or not.

We desire to keep on record the changes of address, as made, of all the Alumni, as well as all memorabilia bearing upon their history.

Our thanks are due to those friends who have kindly assisted us in the preparation of this catalogue; of these we would especially mention Rev. Jonathan Edwards, D. D., LL. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; Hon. Wm. McKee Dunn, LL D., Washington City, D. C; Rev. Geo. J. Reed, D.D., Columbia, Ky.; Rev. Geo. C. Heckman, D.D., Cincinnati, Ohio, from whose semi-centennial address the Historical sketch of the college is compiled; and Rev. Willis G. Craig, D. D., Chicago, Ill., for facts relating to the history of the Theological Department. We would also acknowledge our indebtedness to the catalogues of Princeton and Lane Theological Seminaries.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF HANOVER COLLEGE.

Hanover College was the outgrowth of a desire on the part of the Presbyterian Church in Indiana to provide herself with an educated ministry. The church in the East could not supply the ministry needed for the widely scattered but constantly growing population of the West. Animated with this desire the Presbytery of Salem, embracing Indiana and Illinois, and connected with the Synod of Kentucky, in 1826, requested the pastor of the church at Hanover, Rev. John Finley Crowe, D. D., to open and conduct an Academy until further provision could be made.

This school was opened, January 1st, 1827, with six pupils, in a log cabin, near where the Presbyterian church of Hanover now stands. This was the humble beginning of Hanover College, and of the North-Western Theological Seminary, at Chicago, Illinois.

In May, 1826, the Synod of Indiana was constituted, consisting of the Presbyteries of Salem, Madison, Wabash, and Missouri. The school at Hanover was committed temporarily to the Presbytery of Madison. This Presbytery applied to the Legislature of the State for a charter, and that body on the 30th of December, 1828, passed an act incorporating HANOVER ACADEMY.

The Academy was taken under the care of the Synod of Indiana in 1829. The following resolution was adopted by that body:

"Resolved, That this Synod adopt Hanover Academy as a synodical school, provided the Trustees of the same will permit the Synod to establish a Theological Department, and appoint Theological Professors."

The condition was readily granted, and the Synod at once unanimously elected the Rev. John Matthews, D. D., of Shepherdstown, Virginia, to the chair of Theology. Dr. Matthews accepted, and with characteristic zeal gave his whole time and talents to the interests of the institution. The Theological Department was continued at Hanover for ten years, when it was removed to New Albany, Indiana, in 1840.

The Academy which was chartered in 1828, had been steadily growing; regular college classes had been formed; and in 1833, by act of Legislature, the institution was incorporated as HANOVER COLLEGE.

By active agencies in the East and West funds had been collected and the necessary buildings had been erected for the Preparatory, Collegiate and Theological Departments. The Rev. James Blythe, D. D., of Lexington, Kentucky, of the Presbytery of West Lexington, and extensively known throughout the Church, was in 1832, secured as the first President of the College. The first catalogue issued after the change in the charter presents for all departments a Faculty of seven Professors and four assistants, and one hundred and eighty-three students: Theological 7; Collegiate 63; Preparatory 113. The Board of Trustees consisted of eighteen members, among whom were these pioneers of Church and State: Rev. John M. Dickey, President; Rev. James H. Johnston, Secretary; Hon. Williamson Dunn, Treasurer; Victor King; William Reed; Hon. Jeremiah Sullivan; and the Rev. Samuel G. Lowry. The only survivor of the Faculty of 1834, is Hon. Wm. McKee Dunn, LL. D., Washington, D. C.

The location of the College in that day was within the corporate limits of the village of Hanover. All that remains of the old buildings is so much of the principal edifice as is embraced in the present Presbyterian Church, and one of the shops now occupied as a private residence. None of the real estate or property now forms any part of the present property of the College. The farm lay north of the Spear property and west of Prof. Garritt's place. The Presbyterian Church includes the chapel, two recitation rooms and part of the second story.

So remarkable was the success of this pioneer institution of our Church in the West, that the catalogue of 1834–5, shows an attendance of 236 students: Theological 10; Collegiate 77; Irregular and Preparatory 149. These students were gathered from a wide territory, embracing every State from Pennsylvania to Texas and Missouri. This is explained by its location on the Ohio River. But this prosperity was followed by a period of darkness and trial. The Manual Labor System, for aiding poor students, attempted by many institutions of that day, was tried at Hanover. It failed and involved the institution in debt for every day of its continuance. It had to be abandoned, the expense of education was largely increased, and a necessary consequence was the withdrawal of a large number of students. While embarrassed by debt and this partial withdrawal of support, a fearful tornado swept over the place in 1837, and left the principal college edifice in ruins. From these misfortunes, the College rallied, repaired its buildings, and canceled its debts, but without endowment, was left in a feeble condition.

President Blythe's connection with the College closed in 1836. For two years Dr. Matthews, of the Theological Department acted as President, and in 1838, the Rev. E. D. McMaster, D. D., LL. D., was elected to that post, where he remained five years, terminating his presidency by a memorable epoch in the history of the College. The Board of Trustees was a small body, a close corporation, but indirectly influenced by the Synod, and liable to the control of a powerful mind and local influences. Under the leadership of this eminent and able man, a part of the Board of Trustees adopted a resolution to surrender their charter to the Legislature in return for the charter of a University at Madison. Thus the College was divided right down through Board, Faculty and Students, part going with President McMaster to Madison, and part remaining with Vice-President Crowe at Hanover. The Synod retained all its early convictions of the importance of Christian education by the Church, and it was a day of great men. A struggle followed in which "Greek met Greek." In the Synod of 1844, Madison University was offered to it as a Synodical College. The offer was declined, and the Synod ordered the continuance of its College at Hanover. A new charter was obtained, said to be the most favorable in the state, conferring the powers of a University, and placing the Institution fully under the control of the Synod of Indiana. This it does by giving to that body the right to elect one half of the trustees and through them a voice in the election of the other half. The rights and franchises of the original Synod have descended to the present Synod of Indiana. On account of the changes in the Synods since the reunion of the two former branches of the Presbyterian Church some alterations have been made in the mode of chosing the members of the Board, but only such as are consistent with the Charter.. For instance, the Alumni Association now annually nominates a member. But the college still remains, as it ever has been, firmly bound to the Presbyterian Church.

Through the trials and sufferings which have almost every where marked the history of higher education in America, Hanover College has at a comparatively small cost done an immense work for Christian Education in Indiana and the Republic. Upwards of four thousand students have been educated in whole or in part within its walls, many of whom have attained high distinction and usefulness in the ministry, law, medicine and science. It has graduated 544 students in the Departments of Science and Arts and Theology, and a much larger number have completed the Preparatory course, and gone out from the lower classes. These students are scattered throughout the Republic and in many foreign lands.

Space permits the mention of but few of the Christian men and women who are identified forever with this early scheme of education by the Church in our State. In this later day it is an honor to be numbered among their successors. To no man, perhaps, do the citizens and Presbyterians of Indiana owe a larger debt of gratitude than to that eminent man of God, Dr. John Finley Crowe, who for thirty years with heroic benevolence, self-denial and fortitude, identified his time, talents and interests with the cause of education in our Church. Judge Williamson Dunn is another name illustrious in our early history, among the founders of Hanover and Wabash Colleges, giving first to Hanover and afterwards to Wabash the grounds upon which they were severally built. Another pioneer, Mrs. Mary T. Lapsley, of New Albany, has been the most munificent benefactor to this early effort, giving over $30,000—standing steadfastly by the College in its darkest days, and securing an imperishable name among the Christian educators of the West. Another earnest, modest, learned pioneer, the Rev. Wm. A. Holliday, of Indianapolis, left one-third of his estate now constituting twenty thousand dollars of the permanent endowment of the College. Still another pioneer, John King, Esq., of Madison, after a life of prayerful devotion and generous gifts to Hanover College, left by will $13,000 more. Others of smaller means, whose names will not be forgotten by God or man in the early annals of Presbyterianism in Indiana, have added from time to time to the resources of the College.

The most recent considerable addition to the means of the College has been for the purpose of erecting a suitable building as a home for students.

The College is now out of debt and is living within its means. But it greatly needs additional funds, both to afford a proper support to the men engaged in its work, and also to enlarge its equipment to the scale which the times and the opportunity demand.

THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT.

(This Department was established in 1830; removed to New Albany, Ind., in 1840, and to Chicago, Ill., in 1859. The names alone of those connected with this Department are given here: the proper source to secure the facts in regard to them is the catalogue of the North Western Theological Seminary, Chicago, Ill. The deceased are denoted by the asterisk.)
